January 2017 news

- We held our third board meeting on the 10th January and have further progress to share with you.
- Kingston University attended their first meeting as a partner. We explored a range of options of how we could work together in a collaborative way. We will be able to report in detail after our next meeting but prime ideas included Kingston evaluating the impact of the joint projects which we have agreed for the Trust and having students working with our schools in depth so they have a better appreciation of the environment they will work in as a NQT

- Work is progressing on the design and production of the logo for The Ember Learning Trust and along with that ideas for the development of our own web site. This will be accessible via a link on each school's own web site but until then each school will continue to have a section on their own web site to inform parents about progress.
